Initial idea

Temperature / Power

- In a black room, people go in to vent their emotions, as venting emotions when people are somewhat indecent, so to vent their emotions in a confined space.
- What form of venting emotions
- By the amount of power, colour change, or having a shape.
- There could be smells, and thorough research, find out which smells will make people calm down

Yayoi Kusama case, hand print on the wall, changing color by hand temperature

When people get angry and attack on a soft wall, the wall appears to have the shape of flowers blooming / use the inflatable ball, the color will change not only using hand, but also other products, eg: flowers, flower print feedback?

A haunted house? People enter the black room, their hands unconsciously press to the wall, the wall reacts, get feedback

Entertainment

different room have different feedback

touch the wall and confront another user (who has touched the wall before)
